The F-35 Consortium

The F-35 is a unique military aircraft manufacturing and sustainment program. With the three major U.S. military services and several U.S. allies buying this “Flying combat system,” the suppliers to the program represent many of the most advanced military aircraft developers, suppliers and sustainers in the world.

There is no other readily accessible website which brings together news and information about the industrial participants in the global F-35 program. SLD's F-35 Consortium will highlight the core contributions to building and sustaining this global 21st century weapons system and program.

The partnership approach to the F-35 highlights the importance of suppliers not only in building the aircraft but maintaining a global fleet of aircraft. Through SLD's unique marketing platform, F-35 Consortium contributions will be highlighted and featured to a rapidly growing number of Defense and Security thought leaders. In fact, sldinfo.com is generating over 80,000 visits per month.
